XIV: ALLEGATIONS OF VLADIMIR PETROV,
SOVIET DEFECTOR IN AUSTRALIA

Vladimir Petrov, Soviet agent who defected in Australia in April, 1954, in an article published in the "United States News and World Report" issue of September 23, 1955, alleged that Maclean and Burgess were long-term Soviet agents. According to this article, Petrov learned through his colleague, one Kislytsin, Second Secretary of the Russian Embassy in Australia, that Maclean and Burgess had been independently recruited to work for Soviet intelligence during their student days at Cambridge University. According to Kislytsin, who was in London from 1945 to 1948, Burgess brought brief cases full of Foreign Office documents to the Soviet Embassy where they were photographed and returned to him. The flight of Maclean and Burgess was planned from Moscow upon being advised by the subjects that they were under investigation. Kislytsin reportedly assisted in planning their escape and met them upon their arrival in Moscow. He was responsible for their welfare and visited them often in a comfortable home outside of Moscow. Kislytsin told Petrov that Maclean and Burgess were acting as advisers to the Foreign Office on Anglo-American affairs. Kislytsin was also aware of their plan to get Mrs. Maclean to Moscow and when he read of her escape in the Australian newspaper, he recognized some of the details. (u)

The first publication of Petrov's allegations appeared in the London newspapers on September 18, 1955. Such publication resulted in extensive criticism of the British officials. (u)

XV: WHITE PAPER

In view of the wave of criticism which arose in England following Petrov's revelations that Maclean and Burgess were Soviet agents, the British Government issued a "White Paper" on September 23, 1955. This "White Paper" contained the background, circumstances surrounding their disappearance and also that of Maclean's wife, Melinda, correspondence received by relatives subsequent to their disappearance and allegations of Vladimir Petrov, Soviet defector. (u)

Additionally, the paper pointed out that in 1949 information was received indicating that certain Foreign Office information had been leaked to the Russians some years earlier. Investigation by May, 1951, indicated Maclean to be the principal suspect, although insufficient evidence had been obtained to permit his arrest. On Friday, May 25, 1951, Herbert Morrison (the Foreign Secretary) authorized interview of Maclean; however, Maclean was on leave Saturday, May 26, and the Foreign Office was not aware of his disappearance until Monday, May 28. Steps taken to locate Maclean and Burgess and correspondence received by their relatives subsequent to their escape was set forth. (u)

The conclusion is set forth in the paper that Maclean became aware that he was under investigation. This was accomplished either through a warning or on his own deduction when certain papers were held from him. (u)

It is pointed out that at the time of Maclean's and Burgess' appointments to the Foreign Office nothing was in the record to show either man was unsuitable for public service, although their subsequent personal behavior was unsatisfactory and resulted in action in each case. (u)

The paper pointed out that information concerning this case was not made available to the press because espionage is carried out in secret. Counterespionage equally depends for its success upon the maximum secrecy of its methods. (S-777) (u)

XVI: SENATE INTERNAL SECURITY
SUBCOMMITTEE INTEREST

An Associated Press article appeared in the "Washington Evening Star" on September 30, 1955, stated the Maclean and Burgess case had been brought under investigation by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Senator Eastland, Chairman of this Subcommittee, said one point of the inquiry was to determine if Maclean and Burgess could have tipped Red China that its own bases would be immune from attack if the Chinese troops were drawn into the Korean War. Senator Eastland was quoted as saying he had written to the State Department asking Secretary Dulles about the two men's "relations to the State Department and the basic activity in connection therewith." The article further stated the Subcommittee was expected to try and find out what information Burgess and Maclean had access to and what contacts they had in this country.

The "Washington Post and Times Herald" of October 16, 1955, contained an article reflecting that Senate investigators had asked Secretary of State Dulles if he had any information on whether British sources leaked secret information to Communist China during the Korean War.

The inquiry was in a letter from Chairman James O. Eastland of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. The Senator asked fifteen specific questions, most of them involving Maclean and Burgess. One of the questions asked of the State Department if it had any information that Maclean or others may have given the "Reds" assurances that American forces would not cross the Yalu River in the event the Chinese Communists invaded Korea.

The Eastland letter followed up a general inquiry he sent to Dulles on September 22, 1955, with reference to Maclean and Burgess.

A. "U.S. News and World Report" dated September 30, 1955.

The above magazine has an article on page 21 entitled "How Two Spies Lost U. S. a War." This article is worthy of note since it indicates that Maclean and Burgess aided the Chinese invasion of Korea. Briefly, it states that on September 27, 1950, the decision was sent to General Douglas MacArthur that his forces--airplanes as well as troops--"would not cross the Soviet or Manchurian borders under any circumstances." On November 6, 1950, Maclean became head of the American desk in the British Foreign Office. On November 24, 1950, the Chinese Communists attacked across the border the UN forces in Korea. The implication is strong that Maclean learned that UN forces would not cross the Yalu River and so advised the Soviets. On the strength of this, the Chinese Communists entered the Korean conflict.

This article also indicates that Burgess was second secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, D.C., during nine months which were critical in Korea, from August, 1950, to early May, 1951. The article states, "Burgess was one of the echelon who learned all that was going on."

XIX. MACLEAN AND FUCHS

During 1947-48, Maclean served as the United Kingdom secretary to the Combined Policy Committee concerned with atomic energy matters. This committee was composed of representatives of the United States, United Kingdom and Canada. Maclean attended a three-day declassification conference held in October, 1947, which included a discussion on atomic weapons. Another British representative at this conference was Emil Julius Klaus Fuchs, confessed Soviet espionage agent. (ibid. -161) (u)

Fuchs was interviewed at Stafford Prison on July 11, 1951, and was shown photographs of Maclean and Burgess. He denied knowing either of them and claimed to have no recollection of attending a declassification conference with Maclean in Washington, D. C. (ibid. -423) (u)

XX. MACLEAN AND HISS

According to [REDACTED] (a technical surveillance), on October 19, 1946, Alger Hiss twice conferred with Donald Maclean concerning one of the topics on the UN General Assembly agenda dealing with troops of the UN in non-enemy territories. Later in the day, Hiss was again in contact with Maclean concerning a proposed resolution. (ibid. -72) (u) b2 b7c

It is also noted that elsewhere in this brief mention is made that Maclean defended Hiss in an argument in England, protesting that Hiss was innocent, and also on one occasion Maclean referred to himself as the "English Alger Hiss." (S) (u)

II. DISAPPEARANCE OF MACLEAN and BURGESS

After his return from Washington, D. C., to London on May 7, 1951, Burgess is known to have lunched with Maclean on several occasions. On May 25, 1951, Burgess is known to have told friends that he was leaving London, but he gave conflicting accounts of his destination. He packed clothes sufficient for a weekend. On the evening of May 25, 1951, Maclean left London alone but arrived at his house accompanied by a man calling himself Roger Stiles. It is believed that Stiles is identical with Burgess. Between 9 and 10 p.m. Maclean and Stiles left the former's home in a hired car. Shortly before midnight, Maclean and Burgess boarded the SS. "Palaise" at Southampton, bound for St. Malo, France, on a weekend cruise. Two tickets had been booked in the names of Burgess and Miller. On arrival at the ship, Burgess explained that Miller had been prevented from making the journey and Maclean had taken his place. The ship docked at St. Malo at 10 a.m. on May 26, 1951. Burgess and Maclean disembarked, leaving in their cabin two suitcases containing clothes and one overcoat. They did not return to the ship.

[REDACTED]

SA [REDACTED] they could have caught a train connection for Paris, but there is no positive evidence that they did so.

A. Communications from Maclean

Maclean reportedly sent telegrams from Paris on June 6, 1951, to his mother and wife. On August 3, 1951, Melinda Maclean's mother, Melinda Dunbar, received two checks for 1000 pounds each. These checks were sent from St. Gaul, Switzerland, and were drawn under the name of Robert Becker, Hotel Central, Zurich, Switzerland. This individual also furnished an address of 302 West 92nd Street, New York City. This was a fictitious address and apparently an assumed name as no individual was ever located who might be identical with this Robert Becker. Maclean sent a letter to his wife, postmarked August 5, 1951, in England, in which he informed her that the 2000 pounds sent to her mother were for her. Maclean stated in his letter that the letter had been brought to England by a friend. He told his wife that he could not tell her why he left or where he was. (u)

B. Communications from Burgess

Burgess reportedly sent two communications to his mother, Mrs. Eva Bassett, in London. One was a telegram postmarked June 8, 1951, at Rome, Italy. The other was postmarked London, England, December 21, 1953. (u)

III. DISAPPEARANCE OF MACLEAN'S WIFE AND CHILDREN

On September 11, 1953, Melinda Maclean and her three children left her mother's house in Geneva, Switzerland, where they had moved from England. Later the same evening, Mrs. Maclean's automobile was located in a garage in Lausanne, Switzerland. She and the three children were reportedly observed leaving a train at Schwarzsach, St. Veit, Austria, where they disappeared without leaving a trace. (u)

A. Communications Received after Disappearance

On November 3, 1953, Melinda Maclean's mother received a letter from her, postmarked Cairo, Egypt, October 24, 1953. In this letter she stated that she could not do otherwise than what she had done. (u)

V. INTERVIEWS CONCERNING MACLEAN

Following the disappearance of Maclean and Burgess and the publicity which ensued, this Bureau [REDACTED] conduct interviews of acquaintances of Maclean and Burgess in the United States. The following is set forth in connection with these interviews wherein pertinent information was received. The following does not represent all interviews conducted in this case in the United States.

[REDACTED] Unless otherwise indicated, these interviews were conducted in 1951. (S)

1. [redacted] advised that he had frequent contact with Maclean.

He advised his contacts with Maclean were mainly on business and he never observed any indication of pro-Soviet sympathies on the part of Maclean. (u)

2. [redacted] advised he had contacts with Maclean in 1944 and had suspected that Maclean was more than a liberal. (u)

3. [redacted] She advised she met both Maclean and his wife. She stated there was no indication on the part of Maclean of Soviet or Communist sympathies. She described Maclean as liberal, meaning that he favored the Labor Government in England and moderate reforms. [redacted] advised that while in Cairo she shared an apartment with [redacted]

[redacted] the adjoining apartment was occupied by [redacted] and [redacted]

She advised that one afternoon in May, 1950, Maclean and [redacted] became drunk and called at the apartment house in which she lived. On this afternoon [redacted] was sleeping alone in the apartment and Maclean and [redacted] entered the apartment but did not cause any disturbance. Thereafter they went to the adjoining apartment occupied by [redacted] and [redacted] and ransacked the premises. She said they emptied drawers, upset furniture, threw dishes in the bathtub and generally made a mess of the apartment. After causing this damage, the two men left. Neither [redacted] nor [redacted] was at home at the time. (u)

[redacted] stated that when they learned of the damage, they agreed not to make any official protest nor to discuss the matter with representatives of the British or U. S. Embassies. She advised that probably on the following day [redacted] received a written apology from Maclean, at which time he offered to pay for the damages and informed her he intended to see a doctor.

[redacted] (u)

4. [redacted] advised he has known Donald and Aish Maclean since 1939. [redacted] advised he had no contacts with either of the Macleans in the United States. He advised he regarded Maclean as a loyal British subject. (u)

5. [redacted] and in about April, 1949, he met Maclean at a golf tournament between members of the American and British Embassies in Cairo. He advised he played golf with Maclean on three occasions and lunched at the latter's home, where he also met Mrs. Maclean. He advised that at no time did he discuss political matters and he could furnish no information about Maclean's political sympathies. He advised Maclean appeared to be well regarded in Cairo and he had heard nothing which would reflect unfavorably on his character or reputation. (u)

6. [redacted] advised that he was assigned in Cairo, Egypt, with the State Department in 1948, while Maclean was assigned there. [redacted] stated Maclean was criticized by the French-language newspaper in Cairo for associating with Philip Toynbee, who had been accused by an Egyptian newspaper of being a Communist. [redacted] discussed this matter with Maclean and the latter denied that Toynbee was a Communist. According to [redacted] Maclean, while in Cairo, associated with a fast group which centered its activities around the King of Egypt's sister, Princess Faisal. He described this group as not particularly immoral but merely "fun-loving." [redacted] knew of no subversive information relating to Maclean. (u)

[REDACTED] on interview advised he had been in the British diplomatic service for a number of years and was stationed in Paris in 1938-39 with Maclean. He stated he saw Maclean once in the United States at the Plaza Hotel, New York City, at which time Maclean told him he and his wife were going to Cairo, Egypt, for a new assignment. [REDACTED] advised he never heard that Donald Maclean had Communist sympathies or pro-Soviet views.

[REDACTED] advised he first met Donald Maclean in Washington in 1944.

[REDACTED] He felt certain that Maclean entertained no Communist feelings. He stated, however, that Maclean appeared to be continually under pressure and great strain caused by the demands on his work at the Embassy. He was unable to furnish any other pertinent information concerning Maclean.

[REDACTED] They advised they knew Maclean both in Cairo and in the U.S. and they had never heard him make any pro-Soviet or pro-Communist statements. [REDACTED] rented their home in Washington to [REDACTED]

Later, at a party in Cairo, Maclean asked [redacted] if she knew that the man to whom she rented her house in Washington was a Communist and was made while Maclean was drinking. [redacted] advised this was made in a truculent manner and was made while Maclean was drinking. [redacted] stated she later determined that Maclean had received invitations to visit [redacted] home in Washington and he had refused to go. [redacted] both stated that although Maclean drank heavily in Cairo, to their knowledge he had not associated with anti-British or anti-American people never attended any Soviet parties. (u)

[redacted] advised he believed Melinda Dunbar, mother of Melinda Maclean, knew more about Melinda Maclean's disappearance than she had told. He based his opinion on the following: 1) She would not discuss the case; 2) Mrs. Dunbar evidently knew that her daughter had placed the authority for disposal of her home in the hands of an attorney with instructions concerning its disposition prior to her disappearance; 3) He had heard that Melinda's boys were expecting to see their father at least a month before they disappeared; 4) Mrs. Dunbar stalled for a couple of days before notifying the authorities that her daughter was missing. (u)

[redacted] advised that [redacted] had been assisting the Foreign Office in its attempt to locate Donald since the latter first escaped. [redacted] stated she and her husband arrived at Donald Maclean's home on May 26, 1951, the day after his disappearance. Upon arrival, Melinda Maclean made excuses for Donald not being there, stating he was late coming from London. However, it appeared obvious that he was not expected as no place at the table had been set for him. The following morning the Maclean children came into the [redacted] bedroom and stated their father would not be coming home. Melinda Maclean later in the day advised that Donald had disappeared but she did not know where he had gone. She said that she was not going to advise the Foreign Office and would wait until they contacted her. (u)

[redacted] said she remembered [redacted] stating that Donald had "flirted" with Communism while at Cambridge. The only Communist friend of Donald Maclean with whom she was acquainted was one [redacted] who assisted Maclean to pass his examinations at Cambridge. He also visited the Maclean home during this period. (u)

12. [redacted] advised that he became acquainted with Donald Maclean when Melinda Maclean, her sisters, and their respective husbands rented a house next to his on Long Island. Page said he played tennis with Maclean on several occasions but never engaged in any political discussions with him. He had no reason to suspect Maclean as being pro-Communist or pro-Russian. (u)

13. [redacted] advised that in September, 1948, he rented a home at 3320 F Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., and the prior tenant of that house was Donald Maclean. He stated he had two social contacts with Maclean and the latter said nothing to indicate that he was communistically inclined. [redacted] after consulting with his daughter, [redacted] advised that when they moved into the house, they found a letter on the premises addressed "Dearest Melinda." [redacted] recalled the letter had a very grim text, indicating the writer was either going away or contemplating suicide. She advised she could not recall any of the passages in the letter indicating the identity of the writer, and the page containing the signature, if there was one, was missing. She further advised the letter had been destroyed. (u)

14. [redacted] advised the "family grapevine" was that Donald Maclean was a homosexual. He stated Maclean never exhibited Communist or Soviet sympathies but did hold liberal views. (u)

1. [redacted] was contacted by Burgess in January, 1951, in relation to Far East questions. [redacted] saw him four or five times between January and March, 1951. He described Burgess as agreeable but restless and agitated, and as a heavy drinker but not sympathetic to Soviet Russia. [redacted] advised that Burgess expressed dislike of the congressional inquiry being made into homosexuality and from this [redacted] gathered the impression that Burgess had homosexual tendencies. He advised on interview by the Bureau that they had no discussions concerning Communism. (u)

2. [redacted] upon interview by the Bureau advised that they first met Burgess in April, 1951, approximately two weeks before Burgess departed for England. They advised they were introduced to Burgess by [redacted] and that they met Burgess about three times in New York City. They had no information concerning any pro-Soviet or pro-Communist sympathies on the part of Burgess. (u)

3. [redacted] was interviewed by Bureau agents. He advised he met Guy Burgess socially in England about 1949 and had had a slight social acquaintance with him since that time. [redacted] stated he had no reason to believe Burgess was sympathetic to Russia or the Communist Party. [redacted] advised that he had Burgess and one [redacted] to supper at his home on the Sunday prior to the disappearance of Burgess and Maclean. Following this disappearance, [redacted] told [redacted] that during that evening Burgess told her he was hoping to take a Mediterranean cruise. (u)

4. [redacted] advised that he had known Donald Maclean and his brother since 1939 and had known Burgess for a few years. He advised he saw Burgess in New York City in April, 1951, and that Burgess was drunk the last few days he was in New York City. He stated he knew of no disloyal statements made by Burgess. (u)

5. [redacted] advised on interview that he had attended college with Burgess and had lived in the same house with him during that time. He described himself as a close friend of Burgess and stated he was fond of him. [redacted] advised that he was in London during 1943-44 in the United States Navy, during which time Burgess admitted to him that he was a homosexual. He stated this did not stop his friendship with Burgess as "One's morals are his own business." He stated he had no reason to suspect that Burgess had pro-Communist or pro-Soviet views. (u)

6. [redacted] advised that he met Burgess in New York City. [redacted] advised he had no knowledge of any Communist sympathies on the part of Burgess nor did he know of any friends or relatives of Burgess. (u)

7. [redacted] advised she met Burgess at several parties in 1950. She had no information concerning his pro-Soviet or pro-Communist sympathies. (u)

8. [redacted] advised he met Burgess in London in the late 1930's. He said he also met Burgess again in 1947. [redacted] described Burgess as a drunkard, a homosexual and an emotionally unstable person. He stated he knew of no pro-Soviet acts on the part of Burgess other than his support of the Loyalists during the Spanish Civil War in 1937. (u)

9. [redacted] advised that he met Burgess in England in 1936, when he, [redacted] Burgess was a social acquaintance of the [redacted] family. He stated he exchanged letters with Burgess during 1937-38, [redacted] and upon his return to England again had personal contact with Burgess. He advised the last personal contact with Burgess occurred between 1939 and 1940. [redacted] stated these contacts were all of a social nature. [redacted] (u)

11. [REDACTED] advised he was contacted in March, 1951, by Burgess, who furnished a letter of introduction from [REDACTED]. At the time of this first meeting, [REDACTED] advised that Burgess was intoxicated. He stated Burgess and his mother later recontacted him in April, 1951, at which time Burgess was apologetic for his condition at their prior meeting. (u)

12. [REDACTED] advised he first met Burgess at Cambridge University in 1930 and knew him for about three years. He next saw Burgess when Burgess came to Paris as Secretary to Hector McNeill, British Minister of State. [REDACTED] stated he next heard of Burgess in the Fall of 1950, when Burgess contacted him in New York City. His next contact was when Burgess called him to say good-by, indicating he was returning to England. He said in his contact with Burgess there was no indication Burgess had Communist sympathies or could be a Russian agent. He stated Burgess was an intellectual who was considered brilliant by some and that he had written many speeches for politicians in England. (u)

13. [REDACTED] advised he had known Burgess since 1936. He advised he knew Burgess had a reputation as a homosexual but he had no reason to doubt his loyalty. He stated Burgess studied Marxism but never indicated any sympathy for it. [REDACTED] advised he saw Burgess three times in the United States and had no knowledge of his contacts. (u)

He further advised Burgess always seemed to have plenty of money and purchased a lot of gadgets for the car which he considered to be unnecessary. (u)

16. [redacted] advised he met Guy Burgess on the "Queen Mary" en route to England in May, 1951. [redacted] advised he debarked at Cherbourg, France, but later met Burgess in London, where he also met a number of Burgess' friends. He advised Burgess gave no indication of being disloyal or pro-Russian. (u)

17. [redacted] who was interviewed at his home in Philadelphia, advised he met Burgess while visiting at the South Carolina ranch of [redacted] [redacted] said that he was impressed by Burgess' "crackpot" economic ideas, such as holding that a country could spend itself to prosperity by unlimited borrowing. He said he had no reason to question the loyalty of Burgess to his own country. (u)

18. [redacted] advised she met Burgess on his two trips to Charleston in the Spring of 1951. On one of these trips she gave a cocktail party in his honor. She advised that at no time did Burgess express any political ideologies. (u)

19. [redacted] when interviewed, advised that Burgess had visited them in 1950 and 1951 at their home in Pennsylvania and also at their South Carolina ranch. They met Burgess many years previously in London through [redacted] [redacted] described Burgess as brilliant, very nervous, emotionally unstable and a heavy drinker; they said Burgess defended the British-China policy and indicated he was a member of the Labor Party and favored British socialism. They knew of no derogatory data concerning Burgess. (u)

20. [redacted] met Burgess in September, 1950. He advised Burgess made homosexual advances toward him which he, [redacted] resisted. He described Burgess as bordering on having a psychopathic condition. Burgess did not express any sympathies for communism but did say that he thought the Western world was very muddled and would like to get away from it. Burgess said the things he had hoped for in the way of peace and generally improved world conditions had not come to pass. (u)

I. Association of Burgess with Philby's Secretary

[REDACTED] was secretary to Philby both in Istanbul and Washington. She first met Burgess when he visited Philby in Istanbul in 1948. While in Washington, both Burgess and [REDACTED] lived with the Philby family and by [REDACTED] own statement they were "close friends." [REDACTED] has denied furnishing any information to Burgess concerning the investigation to identify Maclean. She claims she never heard the slightest rumor in the British Embassy, Washington, to the effect that any such investigation was being conducted. (u) b7c

XII. ALLEGATIONS OF VLADIMIR PETROV,
SOVIET DEFECTOR IN AUSTRALIA

Vladimir Petrov, Soviet agent who defected in Australia in April, 1954, in an article published in the "U. S. News and World Report" issue of September 23, 1955, alleged that Maclean and Burgess were long-term Soviet agents. According to this article, Petrov learned through his colleague, one Kislytsin, Second Secretary of the Russian Embassy in Australia, that Maclean and Burgess had been independently recruited to work for Soviet intelligence during their student days at Cambridge University. According to Kislytsin, who was in London from 1945 to 1949, Burgess brought brief cases full of Foreign Office documents to the Soviet Embassy, where they were photographed and returned to him. The flight of Maclean and Burgess was planned from Moscow upon being advised by them that they were under investigation. Kislytsin reportedly assisted in planning their escape and met them upon their arrival in Moscow. He was responsible for their welfare and visited them often in a comfortable home outside of Moscow. Kislytsin told Petrov (u)

that Maclean and Burgess were acting as advisers to the Foreign Office on Anglo-American affairs. Kiselytsin was also aware of their plan to get Mrs. Maclean to Moscow and when he read of her escape in the Australian newspaper, he recognized some of the details. (u)

The first publication of Petrou's allegations appeared in the London newspapers on September 18, 1955. Such publication resulted in extensive criticism of the British officials. (u)

XIII. WHITE PAPER

In view of the wave of criticism which arose in England following Petrou's revelations that Maclean and Burgess were Soviet agents, the British Government issued a "White Paper" on September 23, 1955. This "White Paper" contained the background, circumstances surrounding their disappearance and also of Maclean's wife, Melinda, correspondence received by relatives subsequent to their disappearance and allegations of Vladimir Petrou, Soviet defector. (u)

In addition, the paper pointed out that in 1949 information was received indicating that certain Foreign Office information had been leaked to the Russians some years earlier. Investigation conducted up to May, 1951, indicated Maclean to be the principal suspect, although insufficient evidence had been obtained to permit his arrest. On Friday, May 25, 1951, Herbert Morrison (the Foreign Secretary) authorized interview of Maclean; however, Maclean was on leave Saturday, May 26, and the Foreign Office was not aware of his disappearance until Monday, May 28. Steps taken to locate Maclean and Burgess and correspondence received by their relatives subsequent to their escape was set forth. (u)

The conclusion is set forth in the paper that Maclean became aware that he was under investigation. This was accomplished either through a warning or on his own deduction when certain papers were held from him. (u)

It is pointed out that at the time of Maclean's and Burgess' appointments to the Foreign Office, nothing was in the record to show either man was unsuitable for public service, although their subsequent personal behavior was unsatisfactory and resulted in action in each case. (u)

The paper pointed out that information concerning this case was not made available to the press because espionage is carried out in secret. Counterspying equally depends for its success upon the maximum secrecy of its methods. (u)

A. "U.S. News and World Report" dated September 30, 1955.

The above magazine has an article on page 21 entitled "How Two Spies Lost U. S. a War." This article is worthy of note since it indicates that Maclean and Burgess aided the Chinese invasion of Korea. Briefly, it states that on September 27, 1950, the decision was sent to General Douglas MacArthur that his forces--airplanes as well as troops--"would not cross the Soviet or Manchurian borders under any circumstances." On November 6, 1950, Maclean became head of the American desk in the British Foreign Office. On November 24, 1950, the Chinese Communists attacked across the border the UN forces in Korea. The implication is strong that Maclean learned that UN forces would not cross the Yalu River and so advised the Soviets. On the strength of this, the Chinese Communists entered (U) the Korean conflict.

This article also indicates that Burgess was Second Secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, D.C., during nine months which were critical in Korea, from August, 1950, to early May, 1951. The article states, "Burgess was one of the echelon who learned all that was (U) going on."

XVI. MACLEAN AND FUCHS

During 1947-48, Maclean served as the United Kingdom secretary to the Combined Policy Committee concerned with atomic energy matters. This committee was composed of representatives of the United States, United Kingdom and Canada. Maclean attended a three-day declassification conference held in October, 1947, which included a discussion on atomic weapons. Another British representative at this conference was Emil Julius Klaus Fuchs, confessed Soviet espionage agent. (u)

Fuchs was interviewed at Stafford Prison on July 11, 1951, and was shown photographs of Maclean and Burgess. He denied knowing either of them and claimed to have no recollection of attending a declassification conference with Maclean in Washington, D. C. (u)

XVII. MACLEAN AND HISS

An informant who has furnished reliable information in the past advised that on October 19, 1946, Alger Hiss twice conferred with Donald Maclean concerning one of the topics on the UN General Assembly agenda dealing with troops of the UN in nonenemy territories. Later in the day, Hiss was again in contact with Maclean concerning a proposed resolution. (u)

It is also noted that elsewhere in this brief mention is made that Maclean defended Hiss in an argument in England, protesting that Hiss was innocent, and also on one occasion Maclean referred to himself as the "English Alger Hiss." (S) (S) (u) (u) (u)

XVIII. SPEECH IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT 11/7/55

The Foreign Secretary delivered a speech in the House of Commons on November 7, 1955, in which he stated that it had rarely happened in parliamentary history that the political head of a department had to unfold such a tragic story as was necessary to consider at this time. (u)

The Foreign Secretary pointed out the change in thinking which had occurred regarding communism and security measures from the 1930's to the present time. He remarked that freedom must not be destroyed to preserve it. He enumerated the changes which had been made in the investigation and methods of appointment of Foreign Service personnel and was of the opinion that under the present system there could be no repetition of the Maclean-Burgess case. (u)

Reference was made to H.A.R. Philby who had been mentioned in the House of Commons as the "Third Man." The Foreign Secretary said that after thorough investigation of Philby, no evidence has been found to show that he was responsible for warning Burgess or Maclean. While in the Foreign Service Philby carried out his duties ably and conscientiously. The Foreign Secretary concluded his remarks concerning Philby by saying, "I have no reason to conclude that Mr. Philby has at any time betrayed the interest of this country or to identify him with the so-called 'Third Man,' if, indeed, there was one." SYNOPSIS: AG memo to Director 11-2-55 received enclosing copy of 10-18-55 memo to Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) from Acting Deputy Director, Intelligence. JCS memo notes national security implications resulting from defection of subjects. JCS memo conclusions and our comments follow: (A) Subjects were Soviet agents apparently protected from exposure and dismissal by highly placed British officials. Comment: Both were Soviet agents but we have no info they were protected by British officials unless JCS memo is referring to Philby. (B) Maclean had access to practically all high-level US/UK/Canada projects. Comment: Reasonable conclusion as Maclean head of Chancery, British Embassy, and had access to all incoming and outgoing communications. (C) US/UK/Canada planning on atomic energy and postwar Europe undoubtedly reached Soviets. Comment: Reasonable conclusion as Maclean was UK representative on political aspects of atomic energy and later head of American Section, British Foreign Office. (D) All UK and possibly some US diplomatic codes in Soviet possession. Comment: Probably so re UK codes, but no info Maclean had access to US codes.

AG's memo asks (1) if anything can be done in connection with recommendation in paragraph 8, page 3, JCS memo to find out who replaced subjects in espionage apparatus and inquiries into present and future security of Joint US/UK projects. Comment:

AEC Anyone now in US Govt. who associated with subjects or Philby who should be investigated. Comment: We identified and interviewed number of associates of subjects in US but did not investigate them in absence of info. (2) Who sponsored issuance of escort pass to Maclean for AEC Headquarters. Comment: AEC records do not reflect this, but indicate Carroll Wilson, then Manager, AEC, authorized pass with approval AEC Chairman Lillenthal or Acting.

Chairman Pike, Wilson advised on 11/5/55 he authorized pass, but does not recall approval by Chairman, AEC. States pass issued as courtesy to Maclean who was accepted as an accredited UK representative. (4) Should we interview persons who associated with Burgess and Philby in Washington? Comment: We interviewed many persons in Washington who knew Burgess, but developed no info indicating need to investigate them on basis of this association. Philby's main contacts in liaison with CIA. Was in less frequent liaison with FBI. CIA conducted own inquiry re Philby's association with them. FBI contacts restricted to matters of official interest. Indication Philby went outside official contacts for info. Philby name has now received publicity and British investigation is no longer confidential, we could attempt to locate and interview Philby's associates now. Value of such interviews highly doubtful as Philby's official position made it unnecessary for him to seek info elsewhere.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

(1) That liaison ask Colonel Robert Totten, Acting Deputy Director for Intelligence, The Joint Staff, the basis for the statement in his memo of 10/18/55 to Chairman, JSC, that Maclean and Burgess were protected from exposure and dismissal by highly placed British officials, particularly in the Foreign Office. Also that he be asked the basis for his conclusion set forth in the JCS memo on page 3 that possibly some U.S. diplomatic codes in existence prior to 5/25/51 are in the possession of the Soviets.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. BOARDMAN

~~SECRET~~

DETAILS:

Attached is a copy of a memorandum dated October 18, 1955, from Colonel Robert Totten, Acting Deputy Director for Intelligence, The Joint Staff, to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) on the national security implications resulting from the defection of Maclean and Burgess. Also attached is a memorandum to the Director from the Attorney General dated November 2, 1955, commenting on the JCS memorandum and asking if there is anyone in the Government at the present time who had association with Maclean, Burgess or Philby of an extended character which would indicate that we should make some security investigation of them.

The JCS and the Attorney General's memoranda are discussed separately hereinafter.

JCS MEMORANDUM

This memorandum indicates a study was made of available information on Maclean and Burgess with a view toward estimating the national security implications arising from their defection. It states "our FBI evaluates both men as Soviet espionage agents." It sets forth the following conclusions. Our comments are set forth following each conclusion.

(A.) Both Maclean and Burgess were Soviet agents for many years prior to their defection. They were apparently protected from exposure and dismissal for a long time by other highly placed officials in the British Government, particularly the Foreign Office.

(B.) Maclean had access to practically all high-level plans and policy information that were Joint US/UK/Canada projects. As code room supervisor he naturally had access to all UK diplomatic codes and ciphers as well as the opportunity to scan all incoming and outgoing communications.

Comments:

This is a reasonable conclusion since Maclean was head of the Chancery in the British Embassy in Washington, D. C., from the end of World War II to 1948. In this capacity the code room was under his supervision and he had access to all incoming and outgoing communications.

(C.) In the fields of US/UK/Canada planning on atomic energy, US/UK postwar planning and policy in Europe and all by-product information up to the date of defection undoubtedly reached Soviet hands, probably via the Soviet Embassy in London.

Comments

From January, 1947, to August, 1948, Maclean officially represented the British Embassy on matters dealing with the political aspects of atomic energy. He attended all meetings of the Combined Development Trust from March, 1947, until September, 1948. The Trust was composed of US/UK/Canada members and the purpose was to develop information concerning the location and availability of raw materials for atomic production as well as to negotiate for these raw materials and the allocation of them. Maclean also attended a 3-day declassification conference held in October, 1947, at which discussions were held on atomic energy information held in common by US/UK/Canada during World War II. This conference also included a discussion on atomic weapons. It is interesting to note that another UK representative at this conference was Klaus Fuchs, confessed Soviet spy. (Fuchs was interviewed concerning this matter and denied knowing Maclean.) To further show the extent of Maclean's knowledge on atomic energy matters, you will note that he was issued a nonescort pass on November 15, 1947, giving him access to Atomic Energy Commission Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

~~SECRET~~

Insofar as Maclean's access to information on US/UK postwar planning and policy in Europe, it will be noted that he was head of the American Department in the British Foreign Office in London from October, 1950, until his disappearance May 25, 1951, and, therefore, it must be assumed that he had considerable information concerning US/UK postwar planning for Europe.

D. All UK and possibly some U.S. diplomatic codes and ciphers in existence prior to May 25, 1951, are in possession of the Soviets and are of no further use.

Comments

It would appear reasonable to conclude that Maclean furnished the Soviets all information in his possession concerning UK diplomatic codes and ciphers. As head of the Chancery (which includes the code room) Maclean presumably knew most, if not all, of the UK diplomatic codes. We do not know, however, that he had knowledge of any U.S. codes or ciphers.

[REDACTED] b1
again we do not know if Burgess had any knowledge of U.S. codes. We should ask Totten basis for statement that possibly U.S. diplomatic codes possessed by Soviets. (S) b1

PARAGRAPH 8, PAGE 3: Under this paragraph in the JCS memorandum it is stated that it would appear that very nearly all US/UK high-level planning information prior to May 25, 1951, must be considered compromised. It is stated that rather than attempt to estimate how much damage has been done, it might be more profitable to quietly inquire into just who may be taking the place of these two men (Maclean and Burgess) in the apparatus at this time. It is further stated that it is inconceivable that the pipeline dried and operations stopped on May 25, 1951. It was concluded that it may be more appropriate to assume total compromise as of the defection date & continue the inquiry into present and future security of Joint US/UK projects.

~~SECRET~~

It certainly must be assumed that any data known to Maclean and Burgess has been compromised. It is noted that as pointed out in memorandum dated 6/19/51 the importance of the data Maclean and Burgess had access to and, consequently, it was proper to assume in 1951 total compromise of information available to them. We disseminated pertinent information on 6/18 and 19/51 to the White House, the Attorney General, military agencies, the Atomic Energy Commission, the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency.

While the FBI does not set standards for security clearances of foreign personnel having access to classified U. S. information, [REDACTED] b1

AG MEMORANDUM TO THE DIRECTOR

In this attached memorandum dated 11/2/55 the Attorney General asks a number of questions and hereinafter we will set forth each question followed by our answer.

1. Question: Is there anything we can do in the Department of Justice to implement the recommendation in Paragraph 8, Page 3 of the JCS memorandum or otherwise follow-up leads contained in the JCS memorandum to protect U. S. internal security?

Answer:

Please see our comments on page 6 relative to this. [REDACTED] b1

(C) There are no specific leads to be followed out in the JCS memorandum. [REDACTED] b1

2. Question: Do we have any information indicating the associations which Burgess, Maclean or Philby had with U. S. citizens either in or out of the Government? The AG indicated interest in finding out if there is anyone in the Government at the present time who had such extended association with these three men that we should make some security investigation of them.

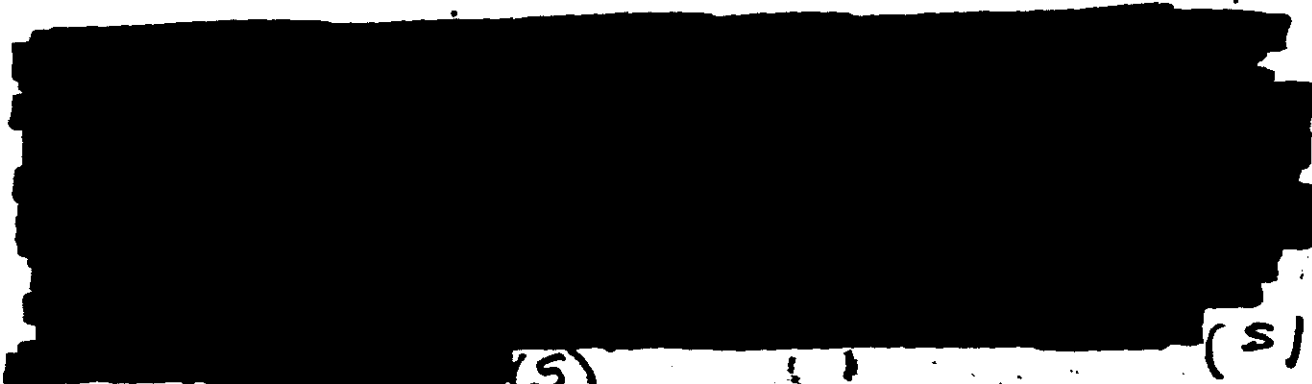

Answer:

We have identified a number of U.S. associates and contacts of Maclean and Burgess, the majority of whom we interviewed in this case. We have had no reason to open security investigations on persons based solely on association with Maclean and Burgess in the U.S. Mere contact with either was not deemed sufficient to open an investigation in the absence of other derogatory information or suspicious circumstances. Both Maclean and Burgess contacted on occasion members of the U. S. Government during the course of their official duties. We did not investigate these people since there appeared to be sound reasons for these contacts and no suspicious circumstances were noted.

As to Philby, his main contacts resulted from his liaison with CIA. He was in less frequent liaison contact with FBI. CIA conducted its own inquiries into Philby's association with CIA personnel. Philby's contacts in FBI were restricted to matters in which he had an official interest. There are no indications Philby went outside of his official contacts for information. Little could be gained from investigating or interviewing these official contacts (S)(u)

3. Question: Who sponsored the issuance of a nonescort pass to Maclean on 11/15/47 for admission to Atomic Energy Commission Headquarters, Washington, D. C.?

Answer:

Atomic Energy Commission records checked 10/25/55 and 11/4/55 but no indication who sponsored nonescort pass for Maclean. Carroll Wilson was general manager, Atomic Energy Commission, at this time and upon his instructions nonescort pass for Maclean was issued 11/15/47 to permit Maclean to visit Office of British Scientific Mission located within Atomic Energy Commission Headquarters building. Nature of pass such that Maclean could go anywhere in AEC Headquarters. AEC records indicate Wilson issued passport after receiving approval of either Chairman David Lilienthal or Acting Chairman Sumner Pike. Wilson interviewed 11/5/55 and advised under broad authority from AEC he could authorize issuance of nonescort pass. He had no recollection of any approval procedures on part of Chairman, AEC. Issuance this type pass to British and Canadian Government officials of Combined Policy Committee not unusual. Passes issued as matter of courtesy under "implicit, if not explicit" acceptance of British and Canadian representatives as accredited officials whose security clearances had been deemed satisfactorily by those Governments. Wilson issued pass to Maclean since latter was accredited British representative designated as one of two joint secretaries of Combined Policy Committee. Wilson has no present recollection of specific circumstances surrounding request for pass for Maclean or others. Believes he issued same type pass to Canadian representative and second UK representative.

4. Question: Would it be possible to obtain clues by interviewing persons who associated with Burgess or Philby while they were in Washington during 1950-51?

Answer:

We interviewed a considerable number of people who knew Burgess while he was in the U , during 1950-51. None of them furnished any pertinent information indicating Burgess was involved in espionage or Soviet activities. None furnished any specific information as to suspicious contacts or associates of Burgess who should be investigated. [Philby's main contacts resulted from liaison with CIA. He had less frequent liaison with FBI. CIA conducted own inquiry into Philby's association with their personnel. His contacts in FBI restricted to matters in which he had an official interest. No indications Philby went outside of his official contacts for information.] (S)(4)
