Defense Movie On Reds Ready

By the Associated Press

The Defense Department has completed the filming of its official narrative on communism to replace several other training films formerly used by the armed forces, some of which have become involved in controversy.

Work on the script for the new film "Challenge of Ideas," intended to explain the ideological background of communism, was started more than a year ago under direction of the Pentagon's troop information and education experts, with civilian advisers.

Meanwhile, the services withdrew from use at least two films which had been produced by non-defense organizations and about which complaints have been made—"Operation Abolition" and "Communism on the March."

Production of "Challenge of Ideas" cost about $20,000, a spokesman said. The Army has ordered 200 copies; the Navy and Marine Corps 184, and the Air Corps 275.

Co-operating in the preparation of the film were Edward R. Murrow, now chief of the United States Information Agency; Hanson Baldwin of the New York Times, television-radio commentator Lowell Thomas and Actors John Wayne and Helen Hayes.

The Defense spokesman said the civilians donated their services.

The new film is one of several planned for production. A second, based on youth organizations, is still in the script-writing stage.

Project Alert Anti-Communism School Opens at Shrine Monday

BY DONALD L. NEFF

The second major anti-communist school here in Los Angeles will open Monday in the Shrine with Project Alert's week-long program of films, lectures and speakers.

A summary of the school to expose the ways of communism and show the individual how he can combat it, according to Ray, Walter, 36-year-old executive director of the League, YMCA.

Walter said Project Alert was formed here by a group of local business, professional and retired military men shortly after the Southern States School of Anti-Communism was held in the Sports Arena Aug. 26-Sept. 1. Dr. Fred C. Schwarz, president of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, head of the school.

"Public enthusiasm shown for Dr. Schwarz's school and approval of material presented to help the individual see how he can personally contribute to the fight against communism were high here as starting a Project Alert," said Walter. "The program starts with a registration at 8:00 a.m. Monday, followed with the speech by W. W. Chen, author and founder of Comic Dictionary.

New Anti-Red School Will Open Monday

Park movie executive Y. Frank Freeman and David W. Young, local attorney and former president of the American Bar Association.

To Be on TV

Daily sessions will be from 9 a.m. to 9:45 p.m. through Thursday in the 6,500-seat Shrine.

The session from 7:30 to 9:45 p.m. will be televised nightly by KTLA Channel 5.

Young American's Day will be held on the National Sports Arena from 10 a.m. through 7 p.m. Daily and other movie studios and sports figures will appear in the program.

The school will be financed with a donation for William Hung at Shrine at 7 p.m. in the Shrine.

Cost for the complete program (exclusive of the banquet) is $10 with 50 tickets sold as available at $2.00.

There will be no charge on Young American's Day, Cavanaugh said.

Many of the speakers are members in executive of the first anti-Communist school here and have been in the anti-Communist movement.

Volunteer Group

Project Alert is a volunteer organization operating without dues paying members.

Some of its board members and founders include Attorney Wright, Steve P. Smith, president of the American Legion; James G. Olson, senior vice president of Leach Corp.; Harry S. Iverson, board chairman of Western Geophysical Co. who recently donated $25,000 to USC for a research institute on communist strategy and propaganda; Dr. William L. Dransburg, a dentist; and Cavanaugh.

The group operates with only two hired workers, both students, who handle clerical work in the organization, Cavanaugh said.

WPA-Hire Staff

Cavanaugh, Brancato and movie-TV producer Robert Rabinowitz are among those who have taken leaves-of-absence from their jobs to spend time in a suite of offices in a new building at 2400 Wilshire Blvd.

The offices were donated to Project Alert rent-free by the Riverside Cement Co., Cavanaugh said.

Cavanaugh and Brancato worked with individuals from Santa Barbara to San Diego in helping to book such speakers here as Sen. J. Frank Pugh and (D-S.C.) and Auri Ward.

Local Groups

It is through these individuals—who belong to various local groups in their own community—that Cavanaugh says Project Alert has received its support.

He estimated between 15,000 to 20,000 Southland residents were already interested in Project Alert.

This was set up primarily to get this school off the ground, Cavanaugh said. "After this is over, we have to get back to work and get the thing going."

Cavanaugh Hired

Both Dr. Brancato, who is board chairman, and Ray Angeles, Union book editor Cavanaugh.

"We don't know what will happen to the organization when the school is closed," said Dr. Brancato. "We'll have to get the division on how to run it."

He said, however, most of the board members of the project will be on the board for a year or longer, but he pointed out that the project is a long-term project.

Now a live the corporation will be set up what it will depend on the success of the school, he said.

Three Sponsors

The names listed were of the three sponsors of the school.

The other two are in charge of the school. Cavanaugh said that the school is a Communist school and that the school is a school for the people and that the school is a school for the people.

The project is a project for the people and that the project is a project for the people and that the project is a project for the people.

Actor JOHN WAYNE Linked
With Alleged Revolt in Panama

Los Angeles newspapers today headline the statements attributed to Panamanian Presidential Press Secretary SALUSTIANO CHACON, linking the motion picture actor, JOHN WAYNE, with a suspected revolt under direction of ROBERTO (TITO) ARIAS, son of a former President of Panama and now a lawyer in that country.

The "Hollywood Citizen News" quotes CHACON as saying letters and documents found in a suitcase abandoned by ARIAS, allegedly in a flight from Panama while being sought, included an envelope bearing the name and return address of JOHN WAYNE. Inside the envelope was said to be an interoffice memorandum to WAYNE from a ROBERT D. WEESNER, dated 4/9/59, outlining a "schedule of funds totalling $682,850 given to or drawn by Tito Arias in connection with his Panamanian operations in which you are involved."

CHACON continued there was "nothing here to implicate WAYNE. But the fact that the memorandum mentions $525,000 turned over to Arias personally, apparently without supporting documents to satisfy Mr. Weesner, seems a little strange."

WAYNE is quoted as saying, in an interview in Hollywood, that he was shocked to hear reports ARIAS and his wife, Dame MARGOT FONTEYNE, premier British ballerina, had been named as connected with a plot to overthrow the government, and he described such accusations as "ridiculous." According to the news articles, WAYNE said, "I have been in business with the Arias family for a long time. A group of us are in several business ventures, including a shrimp import company. ROBERTO never talked politics, and I never heard him say anything about overthrowing the Panamanian Government."

The news articles state the alleged evidence was discovered at Santa Clara, a Pacific beach resort 73 miles from Panama City and a residential resort area where many retired Americans have homes.

Reference is made to the attached memorandum from Mr. Tracy to Mr. Tolson, dated December 31, 1952, submitting a list of names of individuals prominent in the entertainment field being considered for the entertainment committee at the Cherry Blossom Festival to be held in April, 1953, which names were submitted by the Washington Board of Trade for a check of Bureau files.

The list of names has been checked against Bureau indices and it was determined that there are approximately 1155 references on these persons. In view of the large number of references involved and the fact that on some of the individuals rather extensive main files have to be reviewed, it will require some time to prepare the summary memoranda on these individuals. We will handle these as rapidly as possible consistent with the handling of the numerous other special memoranda requests which are constantly being received in the Special Memoranda Unit of the Liaison Section. In view of the above factors, however, it can be anticipated that these memoranda will not be completed for some time.

As indicated in mylet of April 30, 1952, entitled, "JACK HARUKI KAWANO, IS-C", Bufile 100-26164, JOHN WAYNE, of the movies, is producing a film here in Honolulu.

Attached are newspaper clippings which might indicate the film is about FBI agents. Actually, I was informed by Mr. WAYNE the picture intends to depict an investigator for the House UnAmerican Activities Committee and is based upon the "Saturday Evening Post" article, "We Almost Lost Hawaii to The Reds."

I talked to Chief of Police DAN LIU and Captain KENNEDY, who stated the words "FBI Agents" were not used in the portions of the picture they participated in and apparently it is a newspaper mistake as they are merely represented as Federal investigators without any designation of organization.

'One-Take' McQueen Breezes Through First Scene in John Wayne Movie

"Just call me 'One-Take' McQueen," beamed Vernon "Red" McQueen, sports editor for The Advertiser who had just finished his first scene yesterday with John Wayne in "Jim McLain," now being filmed here.

Although he fluffed his lines a time or two during rehearsals, the moment the cameras started grinding, Red was right in there pitching.

"There'll be no living with him from now on!" sighed his wife from the sidelines.

RED, WHO plays the part of Biggs, a reporter for the Technical Press Telegram, is on the opposite side of the fence in the case as far as the FBI is concerned. After discovering this fact late the night before as he was running through his lines, Red became momentarily perturbed and almost refused to play the role.

"I should lose my reputation for pay," he argued with his wife. Of course, for pay and a box lunch I might reconsider."

ONLY A FEW scenes were shot yesterday morning at the Coconut Ave home of Ruddy F. Tongg. As the story unfolded, Red found out that in one scene John Wayne "twists the reporter's arm" and quickly decided that was not for him.

"I either get extra stunt pay or my stand-in takes over," Red declared flatly.

ANOTHER BIT of direction in Red's role says he is to "simper" the leading lady who in this case is eye-filling, blonde Nancy Olson. "How can a guy 'simper' at something like that?" Red inquired. "All I can do is leer."

But the real pay-off came when he read a line with the word "sandy-friend" in it.

"They're all 'babbs' or 'tomatoes' and 'mc.' is the way he summed it up. "but if they want 'em called 'sandy-friends' I guess that's their business."

'ONE-TAKE' McQUEEN MAKES FILM DEBUT — Red "One-Take" McQueen, as he prefers to be called now, was on location yesterday morning for the filming of his first scene with John Wayne in "Jim McLain," the John Wayne-Robert Montgomery picture now in production here. His new nickname comes from the fact, that, like a real trouper, the moment the cameras begin to roll, Red is right in there giving his all. So far it's been a one-shot deal with no retakes. FBI AGENTS MEET HONOLULU POLICE—This actual scene from the forthcoming motion picture "Jim Moran" was photographed in Honolulu police headquarters yesterday. NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC MAGAZINE

Photographs were completed in Los Angeles Office on 5/31/60 and on same evening Mr. ROBERT F. Sisson, photographer for National Geographic Magazine, and SA CHARLES F. MOORE, JR., of Crime Records Division arrived in Seattle.

The following photographs were taken in Los Angeles:

1. SAC WILLIAM G. SIMON and a group of agents before a blackboard containing a diagram of an area surrounding an extortionist's home. The scene depicts the SAC setting forth how the agents will set up and maintain a motor vehicle surveillance of the extortionist as he journeys to obtain the payoff money.

2. A photograph of a clerical employee in the closed files section of the Los Angeles Office which depicts the uniformity of the FBI's filing system and the similarity between the files maintained in the field offices and those at the Bureau.

3. The aftermath of a bank robbery. This scene depicts agents in the interior of a bank interviewing witnesses, dusting for latent fingerprints and obtaining other evidence.

4. A photograph of a Resident Agent who works out of his home. This scene depicts the agent working into the night and he is momentarily interrupted by his wife who brings his young son in to say good-night to the father.

5. A photograph of a confidence man overly dressed in sporting attire being apprehended by FBI agents from among 51,000 racing fans at the Hollywood Race Track. As the agents are taking him into custody he turns to take one last lingering look at the horses as they thunder across the finish line.

6. An agent interviewing movie star JOHN WAYNE on the set of the movie, "Go North", which is a story of early Alaska. This places an agent in modern day business attire in an unusual setting and adds to the scope of activities which agents are involved in daily throughout the country. A rugged looking agent approximating JOHN WAYNE's size was chosen for this particular photograph.

During the time that photographs were being taken in Los Angeles, Mr. SISSON received technical proof copies of the photographs which were taken in Arizona and they are excellent in every respect. Mr. SISSON himself was extremely pleased with the photographs and made the comment that he believed that the photographs being taken in connection with the story on the FBI are the best technically he has ever obtained in his life.

It is thought that the Director might wish to write letters of appreciation to the following individuals who were extremely helpful in the manner described below in connection with the photographs obtained in Los Angeles:

1. HARRY BRAND, Director of Publicity, 20th Century-Fox Studio, Box 900, Beverly Hills, California. Mr. BRAND was extremely helpful in arranging for the photograph to be taken in which movie star JOHN WAYNE and an agent appear, and his assistant, JOHN CAMPBELL worked closely with us in this regard. CAMPBELL should be mentioned in the letter to BRAND.

2. HENRY HATHAWAY, Director, 20th Century-Fox Studio, Box 900, Beverly Hills, California. Mr. HATHAWAY was directing the movie, "Go North", and was extremely courteous in allowing the photograph of JOHN WAYNE and the agent to be taken on his set between the shooting of scenes. During the photographing of this scene, Mr. HATHAWAY requested that his regards be given to the Director and Mr. TOLSON.

3. JOHN WAYNE, 1022 Palm Avenue, Los Angeles 46, California. Mr. WAYNE was extremely enthusiastic about being of assistance in connection with being photographed with an agent. He has long been an outspoken foe of Communists in the film industry and generally and when approached with the proposal for this photograph, he said in effect, "If it is for the FBI I will do anything for them." He then uttered a good natured oath and added, "If they want me to I will even be photographed with an agent and point out a Communist for them!" WAYNE also said that he would like to extend his regards to the Director and said, "Tell Mr. HOOVER I am on his side". WAYNE spent considerable more time in connection with the photograph which was desired than might be expected of him and was extremely courteous and friendly.

4. COURTNEY HASLEM, Department Head, Wardrobe, 20th Century-Fox Studio, Box 900, Beverly Hills, California. Mr. HASLEM provided us with the costume which was worn by an agent who depicted the confidence man being arrested at the race track. The agent's face, of course, was not shown in this photograph and it was necessary for him to be dressed garishly to get across the point that he was a "character".

5. WILLIAM HENDRICKS, Director of Publicity, Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., 4000 Warner Avenue, Burbank, California. Before it was decided that a photograph would be taken with movie star JOHN WAYNE at 20th Century-Fox Studio, Mr. HENDRICKS was approached for his assistance and actually threw open his own studio to any photographs which might be desired by the FBI. He was extremely courteous and helpful, but no photographs were taken at his studio because of the fact no suitable pictures were being filmed at the time.

6. JOHN H. HANSON, 901 West Mountain, Glendale 2, California. Mr. HANSON, a former Special Agent in Charge with the FBI, and presently affiliated with the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, made all of the arrangements for the photograph to be taken of the arrest of the confidence man at Hollywood Park RaceTrack, even to the point of obtaining a place in a private box for the National Geographic photographer so that the photographer would be at the proper angle for the photograph he desired which included the finish line.

The indices of the Los Angeles Office contain no information which would preclude our writing letters of appreciation to the above individuals.

THE DUKE OF HOLLYWOOD

John Wayne Happy With His Third Latin Wife

By VINCENT X. FLAHERTY

Hearst Headline Service Special to N. Y. Journal-American

John Wayne's idea of living amounts to hard work, with timely punctuations of duck-hunting with his pals, casting for trout in a mountain stream of the High Sierras, trolling for saffish, tough-necking with John Ford and Ward Bond—and a good home and family to come home to, possibly in that order.

He's a man's man — all man.

But there is a tender side with the women in his life.

Of his mother, he says: "She's a hearty gal — never been sick in her life, although she's in her 70's. A few years after dad died, she married a wonderful guy named Sid Preen and they have a nice home in Long Beach.

"She spends most of her time worrying about her brood. I wish every kid could start off in life with a mother like mine."

Wayne has been married three times. His first wife was Josephine Saenz, beautiful socialite daughter of a Latin-American Consul. The marriage lasted nine years.

Wayne's friends say Duke worked so hard and got so engrossed in making a good living for his family, that Josephine and the four children saw little of him.

He'd be heading for the studio at 6 a.m. and return home at 10 o'clock at night, dead tired. Or he'd be gone on location for weeks at a time. Josephine put up with it as long as she could.

Of his first wife, Wayne says:

"I really didn't ever do anything wrong, except maybe stay away from home too long—but I thought I was doing the right thing then. That's no good for any marriage. Josephine and I simply drifted apart.

"She's a fine gal and a really wonderful mother. It was best for both of us to part. There is no bitterness between us, we respect each other. Our relationship is pleasant."

Wayne's pals say his next marriage was strictly on the rebound. He married a dark-eyed Mexican girl named Esperanza Bauer. They had nothing in common. The marriage ended quickly.

There was nothing hasty about his present marriage. In 1932, during a business trip to South America, he met a raven-haired dark-eyed Peruvian beauty named Pilar Palette. They were married in 1934 and have a four-year-old daughter, Aissa, who made her film debut in her father's production of "The Alamo."

The Waynes never go to parties. Possibly because of a lesson from his first marriage, he spends as much time at home with Pilar and Aissa as possible.

Wayne is an attentiveness. You often see him wrap Pilar's hand in his big mitt and pull her close.

Enjoys 'Starring' Role As Granddad of Three

Of this marriage, Wayne says:

"Pilar is a truly wonderful girl. With her, I am as happy as I ever expect to be."

The four children by his first marriage are Mike, 25; Pat, 21; Maria Antonia, 23; and Melinda, 17—all tall and exceedingly good-looking.

Mike is married and has a baby daughter, Alicia. Maria

Antonina—they call her Tom—is married and has a boy, Mark, and a girl, Anita.

At 53, Wayne revels in the whole idea of being a grandfather. "You oughta see my grand-kids," he says.

Pilar and Duke live in an attractive, sprawling ranch-type home in Encino, the San Fernando Valley—a 20-minute drive from Hollywood. It isn't at all pretentious, but has a crisp hominess about it.

Duke's den looks like Duke. It is jumping with Western relics and trappings.

The home is secluded amid five fenced-in acres. The Waynes have a big swimming pool and he is one movie star who needs a pool. He is an astonishingly powerful swimmer and loves the water.

"I always wanted to go to Annapolis but I came in third among 36 other fellows in the appointment examinations."

Pilar stays out of the Hollywood glare as much as possible. Ask her what led up to her marriage and she says:

"I just fell in love with Duke, that's all. What girl wouldn't?"

Pilar says there is seldom discord in their home.

"Funny thing about it," she says: "We think so much alike in so many things—how can there be arguments?"

Pilar is vehement on the subject of communism moving into her native South America.

"Something must be done about it," she says. "The people hate it, but a few men with influence are working against them."

Duke Wayne's attitude toward communism is something fierce, particularly as concerns the astounding inroads it has made in the film industry.

He is a member of, and former president of, the Motion

The Commies couldn't hurt

Ford or Wayne because they were the Number One men in their respective jobs. Wayne's thinking in producing "The Alamo" was primarily aimed as a blow against communism. He considers it the greatest story of determination and sacrifice to win freedom and defeat dictatorship.

"Just think of it," he says. "At The Alamo there was a band of only 185 men of many nationalities and religions — all joined in a common cause for freedom.

"Imagine it! Only 185 men who knew they were going to die for their cause, but stuck it out for 13 days against Dictator Santa Anna's 7,000 experienced soldiers.

"They were fighting for the freedom of Texas and they knew they had to sacrifice their lives in order to give Gen.

Houston time to muster volunteer troops.

"Those 185 men killed 1,500 of Santa Anna's men before they died," Wayne goes on. "But they knew they spent their lives for the precious time Sam Houston needed."

You know something? Had John Wayne been living near The Alamo at the time, he would have been one of them.

Picture Alliance, organized by an anti-Communist group of movie people. Among other members are John Ford, Adolphe Menjou, Ward Bond and screen writer Morrie Ryskind.

Communist sympathizers almost ruined Bond by keeping him out of work. Bond shot back to the top with his TV show, "Wagon Train."

Menjou has been knocked totally out of work. Ryskind, who wrote many great hits, including "Of Thee I Sing," hasn't been able to get a writing job since 1947 when he testified against alleged Hollywood Reds.

SUBJECT: ABC-TV SERIES
JOHN WAYNE
SUGGESTED NARRATOR
DURING 1966-67 SEASON

As you will recall, Mr. James Stewart was initially considered to handle the narration for our forthcoming television season, however, he regretfully declined. QM Productions has now requested our consideration of John Wayne, the well-known actor, to handle this commitment.

INFORMATION IN BUFILES:

Mr. Wayne was born Marion Michael Morrison on 5-26-07 in Winterset, Iowa. He has been an extremely successful actor and director during his long movie career.

Bufiles reflect that in 1960 John Wayne was a member and past President of the anticommunist Motion Picture Alliance. It was reported by the Los Angeles Office in 1960 that Wayne was a member of the Beverly Hills Chapter of the John Birch Society, along with a number of other well-known actors and personalities in the movie industry. On 6-9-60, the Director wrote Wayne a letter of appreciation relative to his assistance in connection with the preparation of an article about the FBI for the "National Geographic Magazine." It is noted that a name check was conducted at the request of the White House regarding Wayne on 5-10-66 which reflected no pertinent derogatory information or arrests concerning him. This name check request was in connection with his attendance at a White House affair to be held on 5-17-66.

REC-25 94-60950-427

OBSERVATIONS

While there is no indication of current activity on any part of John Wayne with regard to the John Birch Society, it is felt that in order to preclude any possible criticism of the Bureau for using someone with known John Birch Society connections, we should have Inspector Kemper discreetly determine Wayne's present association. This can be easily done through [REDACTED]

John Wayne Lashes 'Last Summer' And 'Cordura' As Poison Polluting The Bloodstream Of H'wood'

"The motion picture is for the family—and you just don't tell dirty stories to the kids," commented John Wayne over the weekend with considerable vehemence, as he launched a gloves-off attack on what he termed "a trend in certain quarters of Hollywood to glorify all that is degrading and a small percentage of disreputable human beings."

The actor, by name, ticked off such recent releases as "Suddenly, Last Summer" and "They Came to Cordura" as examples of pics he felt "hurt Hollywood." With the remark that he had not seen "Last Summer" and "I don't intend to see it," Wayne tartly cracked: "The subject matter is too distasteful to be put on a screen designed to entertain a family—or any member of a decent family. I have seen in pictures all the adult love and sex and garbage now being spashed on the screen, thus giving the world a false, nasty impression of us. And that's doing our own people an' good, either."

"I don't like to see the Hollywood bloodstream polluted with perversion, and immoral and amoral movies," he said.

blinds, filthy words and filthy thoughts have no place in films, which I see as a universal instrument at once entertaining peoples and encouraging them to work toward a better world, a freer world . . ."

After denouncing the subject matter of "Last Summer" as "so disgusting even for discussion," Wayne hit "Corral" with the observation that "I don't see how they got Gary Cooper to do that one, which, to me at least, simply degrades the Medal of Honor. I am not surprised at that Robert Keeshan, the director, but the whole story makes a mockery of America's highest award for heroism in fighting for this country's enemies. The whole premise of the story was wrong. Illogical as regards the Medal of Honor. They don't pick the type of men the movie picked to win the award. And that can be proved by the very history of the medal."

Blasts 'On The Beach'

Wayne states he has not seen "On The Beach" and, as a consequence, "I cannot comment on the defeatist aspects of the story, with which I am familiar, however. But I do say this: the growing defeatist attitude in the Cold War imposed on us by the Soviet is a disgrace, and it is disgraceful that my fellow Americans would reflect such an attitude. America made the bomb and Russia stole the secret. Very well, they have it, we have it. The truth is, we won't run to first; they will when they feel they can conquer us. Meantime, they are trying to defeat us by breaking out spies and morale agents—the true agents of heroic deeds—toward our own nation. The real American is ready to die for his freedom and the sovereignty of his country. It certainly isn't going to be beguiled into dropping our guard and letting his freedom to the slave world of the Kremlin."

"I just finished making 'The Alamo' and I am not dragging that subject in by the neck at this point. 'The Alamo' is a film made up of men and women who believed that in order to live decently one must be prepared to die decently. That is a noble and a thing so common they believed in freedom they searched for something worth fighting for and dying for as well as living for."

'More Important Than Money'

"There's something more important than the money. I anticpate hearing from 'The Alamo' . . . I think it will be a reminder of the type of people who made this country great and will interest all who have an interest in a thing called freedom. I think we've all been a little soft, taking vacations for granted."

To me a great reminder of how dear it was won is the story of 'The Alamo' . . . 182 Americans who fought for 13 days, 1000 troops on a hill-top. These 182 men killed 1700 of the enemy before they were slaughtered because they didn't like a group of meddling people around."

I'm very proud to have played a part in bringing this film to the world. I'm glad I spent 14 years, on and off, working with James Edward Creech on the film, which shows the whole picture of opinion and sentimentality that I think still dominates the thinking of Americans—the double standard, continued, certainly with the exception, not the rule, of Hollywood."

"Don't get me wrong, when I saw the isolated exceptions in the war and really had not turned the scene of the finest film ever made. I'm afraid we risk losing this record, not only some pictures which inject subject matter and philosophy which are necessary to advance our industry, and much to stir moral indignation which could lead to changing defeatist and cowardly quarters."

"I only agree. I'd like to see the picture a bit better. I think we must don't let our industry go to the wall."
